

Safety Briefing Monitor

The safety briefing will be administered at the booth that is showing a 10 minute video about how to become a professional pilot. In between each airing of that video, the passenger safety briefing video will play. For the first 45 minutes or so, though, the safety briefing will play several times in a row, so we can get lots of passengers ready for the first round of flights.

- Sit at the presentation area, where the passengers will go to view the safety briefing video.
- After the passengers have been seated, collect their boarding cards onto a clip board – perhaps keep them in ‘row’ order on the clipboard.
- While they are watching the video, stamp their boarding card with the pink bingo dauber on the appropriate rectangle.
- If people arrive after the video has started, ask them to wait until the next broadcast.
- Once the video is completed, give the boarding cards back to the passengers
- Tell them to go outside to line up for their flight about 10 minutes before their flight time (noted on their boarding card)
